

KTA's comment section is a family-friendly, open forum where people of any age with an interest in hiking, trails, conservation and the outdoors can share comments, or express responsible, respectful opinions.

To ensure that this website remains a place where everyone feels welcome, we have a few rules.

We will not approve comments that contain the following:

- -obscene, vulgar, profane, violent, hateful or racist language
- -threats or defamatory statements
- -personal attacks or insults
- -advertisements or solicitations of any kind
- -posts that suggest or encourage illegal activity
- -off-topic or repetitive comments
- -personal information, including, but not limited to addresses and telephone numbers
- -support of or opposition to political campaigns
- -content that violates a legal ownership interest of any other party
- -images that depict any of the above listed items

Comments are a reflection of the author and do not necessarily reflect the official views of the Keystone Trails Association. We reserve the right to block comments to this site if they violate the commenting policy.

We encourage respectful dialogue and will not remove a comment simply because it disagrees with a news item or blog post. However, if the comment contains vulgar language or any of the other items listed above it will not be approved. Thank you for helping us to keep this page a family-friendly forum.
